Career Coach, Keynote Speaker, Author, and Mentor "ALSNTEC"

With more than 25 years of combined experience in the Information Technology and Administration field, Anne Alston's extensive background comes with the precision of providing Career Transition, Professional Development, Mentoring, and Empowerment Services.

Anne's consulting experience began as the owner of A & M Creations in 1997 operating as a desktop publisher and business strategist. The company's motto was "Serving the Needs of Small Businesses." Not only did she support small businesses, she also served the needs of individuals who aspired to become entrepreneurs or needed career guidance. The company name changed to ALSTNTEC to reflect the new type of services offered.

Over the years, Anne expanded her consulting expertise to the field of career transition and preparation, mentoring, and empowerment. Her endeavors would later embark on a new journey to change and enhance lives through her personal coaching sessions, empowerment speeches, and learning publications. Her primary mission is to bring awareness of the importance of career preparation to your overall personal and professional life. Her successes in this effort have led to a number of great partnerships along the way, which have yielded her opportunities to present her Career Transition Workshop and Empowerment Speeches to a number of organizations and events that work directly with the local community, educational institutions, and private/non-profit organizations. As an activist for adult/youth education and small business supporter, Anne actively participates as a workshop presenter Prince George's County Public Schools, the Maryland Future Business Leaders Association, and the Maryland Roundtable for Education STEMnet program. She is also a Mentor with the University of Maryland University College (UMUC) and recently received the UMUC Alumni Achiever Award for her dedicated service to UMUC students and faculty. She is also the creator of the Business Men and Women of Color Podcast, a yearly, online network platform designed to foster the talents of small business owners, speakers, authors, and future entrepreneurs. With this platform, she has engaged approximately 91 participants from around the world.

Anne is a humanitarian and philanthropist who believe that Sharing Information Can Changes Lives. She exemplifies this through her efforts of bringing positive change by bringing together Clients, Technologies, and Industries together for a common goal. Her responsiveness is unmatched, and she always strives to become your Partner.

Anne earned her Bachelor's of Science degree in Information Technology from the University of Phoenix. She furthered her education by obtaining her dual Masters' of Science degree in Information Technology with a specialization in Information Assurance and CyberSecurity Policy from the University of Maryland University College.
